Children under twelve years of age at the time of embarkation, five dollars less than the above; and infants under twelve months thirteen dollars less than the above-named prices, to Boston or Albany, and other places in proportion; but we will not issue a pre-paid certificate for children under twelve years of age, unless accompanied by a passenger over twelve years, who must be paid for at the same time and on the same certificate.

The above prices embrace a steerage passage from Liverpool to Boston, by any of our Splendid Line of Packets; provisions at sea according to the undermentioned dietary scale; doctor's attendance and medicine on board when required; port charges at Boston, and all expenses of transportation of passengers and baggage from the ship at Boston, to the destination agreed upon.

In addition to any provisions which the passengers may themselves bring, the following quantities, at least, of water and provisions will be supplied to each steerage passenger of twelve years of age and over, every week during the passage, commencing on the day of sailing, and at least three quarts of water per day:

Two oz. of Tea; 8 oz. of Sugar; 5 lbs. of Oatmeal; 2½ lbs navy bread; 1 lb. wheat flour; 2 lbs rice.

On the arrival of any of our ships in the outer harbor, we immediately dispatch an agent on board, to give pre-paid passengers the necessary instructions regarding their route westward.

Bedding and utensils for eating and drinking, must be provided by passengers; and those going to the Canadas, or Western States, must furnish their own provisions from Boston.

TRAIN & CO., of Boston, inform those who take an interest in the welfare of immigrants, that as owners of the only LIVERPOOL and BOSTON LINE of PACKETS, they have determined that their immigration business shall be conducted in their own name, on their own responsibility, and by themselves or their immediate servants.

In calling public attention to the subjoined list of the Ships which comprise our Boston Line of Packets, we believe that its general reputation as the first of American Lines is sufficiently well known, and that the Thousands of Letters which have been sent by American Immigrants to their friends in every part of Europe, have borne ample testimony to the rapid and successful passages made by those Ships, and to the superior Health, Comfort and Safety which their Passengers have hitherto enjoyed. Many of these Ships will be recognized as such which have gained the very highest character, by a succession of unusual rapid passages.

They possess all the modern improvements which conduce to health and comfort, and a superior cabin accommodation, with the very best Provisions, and a careful medical superintendence.

The Captains have been carefully selected as first-rate sailors and men of humanity, and an experienced Surgeon is attached to each Ship, and no expense has been spared to render this the best and most popular conveyance to America. As Train & Co. have made such arrangements in Liverpool as will PREVENT their friends from the frauds and impositions sometimes practiced there, they believe that those who pre-pay passages cannot but see the advantage of being able to engage with a Respectable House, on favorable terms, for a well known Line of Magnificent Packet ships, and in this way avoid the disrespect, annoyance and delay which they so often experience, when they engage with Agents who are but slightly connected with transient Ships.

As a proof that their Immigration business is conducted on principles of honesty and liberality, and that they have been distinguished for the most exact fulfilment of all their engagements, we are permitted to refer to the very Rev. THEOBALD MATHEW, Cork, Ireland.

We also publish the following testimonial from the Right Reverend JOHN BERNARD FITZPATRICK, D. D., Bishop, Cathedral, Boston.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE SENTINEL.

Madison, Jan. 13, '54.

Among the items of legislation required for our county at the present session seems to be a law authorizing the issue of $100,000 of bonds for the erection of county buildings. Our board of supervisors has already invited proposals to furnish the necessary lots for the location. The bill which has been drawn up, and is here by the approval of the Board, provides for the appointment of three Commissioners, by the Supervisors, to attend to the business, with a Secretary named, being the present Clerk of the Board, Mr. Bade.—I have no comments to make on this last item, Mr. Bade is doubtless competent enough; but it only needs to accept a location, say down in the marsh somewhere, and to appoint anybody who is lucky enough to have sufficient influence with the Board, as Commissioners, to finger the money, to make the idea of erecting county buildings decidedly disagreeable to our people. Evidently some men are bound to make a job of this business. It would seem a much better plan to have three men selected from among our people—men in whom all have confidence—men who know something of the management of extensive operations in building—and to entrust the whole business to them. The delegation here might select such men if they would, but it is quite probable that they cannot agree among themselves.—It would be a wonder if they did agree among themselves. It would be the first time a delegation from Milwaukee county was ever known to agree.

What think you of the Governor's idea relative to the organization of a new Bureau, to have charge of the School Fund? It strikes me with a wonderful intensity of force. Rumor, flying about these parts and elsewhere, hints of various extensive transactions for years past, which may have diminished that fund considerably, and that would be a capital arrangement by which the Legislature, in aid of the administration, could appoint a judicious officer to have charge of matters. That School Fund is said to be very sacred. I have long believed that with several persons who shall be nameless, a portion of it is "sacredly kept" back from its owners, the people.

Will the Legislature back the Governor in his declaration of sentiment as to land grants?—His arguments—his doctrine, that while it may be wrong for Uncle Sam to make a bad disposal of the lands in giving them away for railroad purposes, it is yet right for the States to accept the gift? in short, that, contrary to the general understanding, the receiver is not as bad as the thief? I doubt whether a majority will agree with the Governor.

The Senate this morning got through with several items of business, minutes of which I sent you by telegraph. The usual sop to the favored democratic papers in foreign languages was administered, the Banner, Volksfreund and Emigranten, getting orders for 1,000 copies of the Message each, at 10 cents per copy. Pretty good pay, that!

Mr. Briggs, Senator last winter from Eastern Rock County district, has sent in a communication contesting the seat of Mr. Harvey, who has the certificate as his successor. The decision in this case will also settle the right of Messrs. Reymert and Moritz to their seats, in place of Messrs. Bowen and Weil. The doubt is as to the right, under the Constitution, to elect Senators, except to fill vacancies, for a less term than two years.

The Senate Standing Committees are as follows:

Expiration of Laws—Eldridge, Smith, Harvey.
Legislative Expenditures.—Cary, Miller, Whittlesey.
State Affairs.—Vittum, Eldridge, Blair.
Public Printing.—Bowen, Reymert, Hunter.
Banks and Banking—Hunter, Dunn, Bashford
Engrossed Bills.—Bashford, Howell, Eldridge.
Contingent Expenses.—McGarry, West, Wakeley.
Public Lands.—Grant, Harvey, West.
Enrolled Bills.—Loy. Bowen, Adams.
On Judiciary.—Messrs. Dunn, Wakely, Cary, Loy and Vittum.
On Finance.—Messrs. Whittlesey, Bowen and Moritz.
On Education, School and University Lands.—Messrs. Wakeley, Dewey and Bashford.
On Incorporations.—Messrs Dewey, Allen, and McGarry.
On Claims.—Messrs. McLane, Smith, and Adams.
On Internal Improvements.—Messrs. Allen, Harvey and Grant.
On Roads, Bridges and Ferries.—Messrs. Sterling, Howard and Adams.
On Town and County Organization.—Smith, Reymert and Howell.
On The Militia.—Messrs. Miller, Allen and West.
On Privileges and Elections.—Messrs. Blair, Dewey and Sterling.
On Agriculture and Manufactures.—Messrs. Reymert, Moritz and McLane.

In the House, there was nothing beyond what was said by telegraph; that is, nothing done.—There was a deal of talking for Buncombe relative to the supplying of "our German fellow-citizens" with copies of the message at 10 cts., each, and considerable time wasted in making up the Legislature mind to pay the shot; but finally the Banner, Volksfreund and Emigranten were entered for 1000 copies each, and the Newsboys for 500 copies.

The usual debate on taking newspapers followed, concluded, after a list of amendments had been voted down, by ordering 10 dailies, or their equivalent for each member. There are so many new members, (seven are only re-elected) that they must be permitted "to see the folly of it." All sorts of propositions were acted upon, from 10 weekly to 10 daily, and the last was agreed upon, being the same number as authorized in Senate.

The matter of the Chaplaincy was settled in accordance with a proposition of Mr. Orton's, to invite the resident clergymen to officiate, and to fix no rate of pay, Mr. Orton stating that if, at the close of the session, the Legislature did not see fit to provide a reasonable rate of payment at the close, he would pay them himself.

I spent a half hour in looking through the rooms of the Capitol House, under the guidance of the landlord, Mr. Stercus. We went through the whole house from the capacious and pleasant rooms in the basement to the roof of the observatory, 80 feet from the ground, and commanding a view of hill and dale, timber and prairie, and beautiful lake scenery, unequalledeast or west; and I found no room in the building unpleasant or uncomfortable. All are filled up with new and very neat furniture, and the bedrooms with luxurious accompaniment. Numerous parlors with bedrooms attached are fitted up for families or parties.

The ladies' parlor is a gem in its way, and furnished with excellent taste. It contains a piano built by Weber, in New York, at a cost of $800, of a superior kind. The tones drawn from its entanglement of wires, as the pearl covered keys were swept by "fairy fingers," were rich, and deep, and full, and sweet. Mr. Stevens is quite proud of his achievements in this room, and well he may be. The dining room will seat comfortably at the table about 90 guests, and more by crowding a little. In this room, about these days, there is a table set which in its ample provision, is eminently satisfactory to the inmates of the Capitol House. I wish some of our Milwaukee people who have been talking so long about building a superior hotel, could come out here and learn how much better every one feels towards Madison since the inauguration of this house, than they did before. It might inspire to something else besides more talk. Success to the Capitol House and its clever landlord!

N. B. I don't live at the C. H., so the above may be considered entirely disinterested.

Lafarge Hotel and Metropoletan Hall in Ruins—Julien's Dress Ball, &c.

Messrs Editors:

IRVING HOUSE, NEW YORK, Jan. 9.

Sunday morning, at 1 o'clock, Metropolitan Hall was discovered to be on fire, and when the doors were opened the flames burst forth like a volcano, driving back those attempting to enter, and in a short time commencing with the Lafarge Hotel, just finished. The whole city was illuminated, so as in the distance to resemble a sea of fire. It was rumored among us that the St. Nicholas Hotel was burning, and for a time considerable excitement existed. Owing to the lateness of the hour it was some time before the department brought their men into action, and when it did, the Hall was past salvation. In consequence of its immense size, and the intense heat, the men were unable to approach near enough even to prevent a rapid spreading of the devouring elements, and in a few short hours the structure that had been for several years growing into a lofty pile of white marble, surpassed only by the St. Nicholas in grandeur, and covering more than an acre of ground, was a mass of blackened smoking ruins. The beautiful portrait of Jenny Lind that graced the end of the Hall immediately over the stage; the frescoed walls and pannelled ceiling; the columns and the boxes—even Julien's music—all had turned to ashes! and those things which had given us so much pleasure to look at, were then floating mingled with white cinders in the air, and slowly settling down upon the shoulders and heads of the vast crowd called from their slumbers to witness the grand conflagration. The Hotel was just about furnished in a style of magnificence and splendor, in keeping with its outward appearance.—Axminister carpets, Divans, Sofas, Rosewood Bedsteads, Mammoth Mirrors, Bronzed Chandaliers, Mahogany Dressing Cases, and Wardrobes; Wilton and Brussels which had never yet been trod upon; piles of Linen, beautiful vases; the decorations for the supper of Julien's grand Dress Ball, to be given on the 18th inst; marble tables, marble floors and "Marble Halls," when the sun rose were all an undistinguishable mass of ruins—the magic of the flames had turned this regal splendor into ashes. Half a million of property had ceased to exist. Hotel proprietors looked sober and insurance companies shrugged their shoulders, if they have any—(it is said corporations have no souls, perhaps they have shoulders)—and a few exclamations passed around among the rest of mankind; but to day the whirl of excitement and business goes on as if nothing had happened, and by next week the whole thing will be forgotten, except by those particularly interested. Perhaps Julien will compose a piece of music commemorative of the event. He certainly could not do less, and the waltzing of the flames and polking of the cinders would not be more far-fetched than similar revolutions of the fairy dids or less ingenious than his Christmas piece representing Santa Clause making his annual benevolent visits.

I shall suggest the idea to Le Grand Smith, in whose master hand are the arrangements of the Soiree. For it is better to laugh than to weep at misfortune, and though you may think me disposed to make light of fires, I assure you the last one surpassed all attempts of the kind. The gentleman last mentioned informs me that the ball will still "go on," probably at Niblo's Garden, and though he looks severe over this late calamity, his usual energy has not forsaken him. His lost wardrobes has already been re-placed by Eaton & Co., who are able to dress the raggedest in twelve hours time, and I doubt not Julien's Ball will still be Julien's Ball, and in a few days Le Grand Smith be himself again.

Last Friday was the anniversary of the opening of the St. Nicholas Hotel, and was commemorated by the proprietors, Messrs. Treadwell, Acher and Whitcomb, by as sumptuous a repast and elegant a party of ladies and gentlemen as has ever been my good fortune to witness. Owing to the illness of Captain Acher, his brother, P. J. Acher, took his place, and together with Mr. Whitcomb and Mr. Treadwell, welcomed the guests as they passed into the dancing hall. The supper was announced at twelve, and at two o'clock the merry party had broken up. The elite of New York society were in attendance, as well as many distinguished strangers. New carpets had been put down in the main halls of the House, and the home of "Santa Claus" and travellers generally "looked as good as new."

The snow in Broadway has melted so as to ruin all attempts at sleighing, though the country presents plenty of it. It was however made available while it lasted, and on new year's day cutters and splendid sledges were passing and repassing in rapid succession. The practice of calling was universally observed, and open houses were the order of the day. At night I met a few young bloods whose feet appeared somewhat unsteady, owing to their walking on "slippery places;" and for a time I feared their standing might be endangered in one way if not in another by their "potations pottle deep;" but it was not my misfortune to witness any very remarkable notation of the generous hospitality of the day.

The money market seems less stringent than it has been for some months past, though by no means easy. Rail-Road lines of doubtful expediency have received a shock which will terminate their career for the present, whilst others, very necessary, have been considerably embarrassed.

Of the amusements of the city, we are dependent upon Wallack's, Burton's and the Broadway, though I believe Uncle Tom is still performed for the hundredth time, before admiring audiences, at the National Theatre, in Chatham street.

Politics are as cold as a wedge, and though the new city council are inaugurated, there does not yet appear to be any reform. I strongly suspect we shall wag on about as usual through dust, dirt and mire, until the great day of purification by fire and then sinners must look out for a scorching. I am, very respectfully,

Capital Punishment.—Is Murder a Bailable Offence!

Messrs. Editors:—

As the public mind is now engaged in discussing the question of capital punishment, and whether murder is a bailable offence, will you permit me to occupy a brief space in your columns on that subject? From the tone and spirit of sundry editorials recently appearing in the Sentinel, I am induced to think its editors are in favor of the death penalty, at least as a matter of expediency, if not of principle. But that such is their well-settled convictions of right, I am not willing to believe, as it would not harmonize with their otherwise liberal and humane sentiments which have gained so strong a hold in the hearts of the people.

I am willing to admit that there is a great error somewhere—either in the law itself, in its interpretation, or in its being administered. From this error flows the great evil which is now felt and acknowledged throughout the length and breadth of our State. The real question to be solved therefore, is, at what point has this error been committed? It is not my purpose to enter into an extended argument to prove that the death-penalty is unwise, unjust, and inefficient, for the question has been discussed for a long time by jurists, statesmen, and divines, and there still exists the same difference of opinion. But I shall assume that capital punishment is not only unnecessary and barbarous at the present time, but inexpedient and inefficient; that the experience of mankind, the world over, for the last century has demonstrated the wisdom of its abolition; and that it is in conformity to this common judgment that the legislatures has in some countries reduced the number of capital crimes, and in others wholly abrogated the gallows. If this position is a sound one, it follows, of course, that the error is not in the law as it now stands in this State, abolishing the death penalty; and we must look elsewhere to find it. And this brings us to the question—Is murder, as the law now stands, a bailable offense? I shall answer, No! and it is this point that it is my object to prove.

I am well aware that I am opposing not only public opinion in general, but high judicial authority. Judge COWEN, presiding in the La Fayette County Circuit Court, admitted to bail one Andrews, who stood indicted for murder in the first degree. Mr. Court Commissioner BUTTRICK, at Oshkosh, recently ordered that Frederick Cartwright be discharged from jail on giving bail for his appearance at the next term of the Waushara Circuit Court, where he (Cartwright) stands indicted for murder in the first degree. And I have seen in the papers that there is a third case of the same nature, but I am not able to state it. In noticing one of these cases, one editor says that it "certainly appears to be the law" that murder is now a bailable offence. And in commenting upon another, the Sentinel tacitly assents that "murder is a bailable offence, as it can no longer be punished capitally." So it goes; judges look to the letter of the law, and hastily pronounce a decision; editors note the fact, and assent to its correctness without discussion, whence follows public opinion that the judges are right and the laws wrong. Murderers are set at liberty with as much indifference as though murder had ceased to be more than a misdemeanor! This great and lamentable evil is charged to the law, while it should be driven home to the enormous construction of the law. Let us see if this is not so.

In the Constitution of the State, Art. I, Sec. 8, we read:

"All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offences, when the proof is evident or the presumption great."

In Chap. 145, of the R. S., p. 721, we read as follows:

"Sec. 17.—Persons charged with an offence punishable with death shall not be admitted to bail, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; but for all other offences bail may be taken," &c.

Upon the construction of the words employed in these two extracts turns the question. In the constitution the words capital offences" are used. I take it that no lawyer will pretend that the word "capital," as there used, is anything but a technical word, meaning "greatest," or "chief." The greatest penalty known to the law is death. Less than a century and a half ago there were over one hundred and fifty offences punishable by death in England; some by hanging; others by embowelling alive, beheading, and quartering; murder, by a public dissection; for treason, committed by a female, the punishment was burning alive—and all under the general name of "capital punishment." I am inclined to think that the term "capital," here used, had its origin from the word "capital," (head); but whether so or not, as a law term, it has long been purely a technical word, employed to designate all crimes that were punished by death, whether by beheading, or by any of the many other humane methods of which history tells us.

The law language is full of technical terms and phrases, many of them being now used in neither their literal nor old technical sense. From the English Common Law and Statute Law, we have drawn our whole system of jurisprudence. As a matter of course, we have made copious draughts from the same sources for words and phrases to express and declare our compacts and laws. It is not an uncommon thing to hear men of good sense and liberal education, employ legal terms in common conversation, which, if taken in their legal, technical sense, would express something wholly different from what such persons intend. One illustration of this will suffice. Plea is a term employed by the legal profession to express "the defendant's answer, by matter of facts to the plaintiff's declaration." The defendant pleads when he formally enters his defence on the record. In common parlance, plea is used as synonymous with argument, as "the counsel made an able plea." This is the perversion of a term of art; but if it should be actually employed in a statute, in the latter sense, no man who possesses an ounce of brains would contend for a construction which would maintain the technical sense, and thus defeat the object of the law.

Constitutional Conventions and Legislative Assemblies, are in this country, generally composed of men fresh from the plow, the anvil, and the work shop. Very few are learned in the science of the law, and against those who are, there is generally a strong prejudice by those who are not. The certain consequence is, that our constitutions and laws are crude and insignificant, or else borrowed from other States. It is a notorious fact that there are whole sections and oftentimes entire articles, in one State constitution, which have been taken verbatim from the constitution of a sister State. Almost every State constitution adopted since 1789, contains entire provisions copied literally from the Federal Constitution.

Now with these facts before us, let us examine the constitution of the State of Wisconsin, so far as it relates to capital "offences." What did the members of the convention mean when they adopted the clause above quoted? The term is in the plural, "offences." Had there been more than one offence punishable by death under the Territorial government? No. Did any one in or out of the convention suppose that any other offence than murder ever would be made punishable by death? No. Then why say offences? "Oh, the term was borrowed, and we were not particular." Well, why did you employ the word 'capital?" We found in other constitutions. And you took it, without reference to its actual meaning as there used! Yes. Well, what did you mean by it when you adopted it? That murder should not be bailable. You are certain you meant nothing else, are you? Yes; murder was the only capital offence, and we meant that murder should not be bailable; we could not have meant any thing else.

So it seems to me. To my mind it would be as rational a proposition, that "murder had ceased to be murder," as that, because murder is no longer punishable by death, it has become a bailable offence—become,—the very word indicates its absurdity!

Construction has been defined to be "the drawing an inference by the act of reason, as to the intent of an instrument, from given circumstances, upon principles deduced from man's general motives, conduct, and action." 1st Powell on Con. and by another author, thus: "when the words used are of precise and unambiguous meaning, leading to no absurdity, that meaning is to be taken as conveying the intention. But should there be manifest absurdity in the application of such meaning to the particular occasion, this will let in construction to discover the true intention;—for example: "when words are manifestly inconsistent with the obvious purpose or object, they will be rejected." "The plain, ordinary, and popular sense of the words, is to be preferred to the more unusual, etymological, and secondite meaning; or even to the literal or strictly grammatical construction of the words, where these last would lead to any inefficacy or inconsistancy."—"Technical words are to be taken according to their approved and known use in the trade to which they relate, unless they have manifestly been understood in another sense." 1 Bouv. Law Dict, 285, and Pothier says "when a clause is capable of two significations, it should be understood in that which shall have some operation rather than that in which it will have none."

Take the rule here designated, and apply it to the clause from the constitution which we have quoted. Was it not the manifest intention of the framers of that instrument that murder should not be bailable? Unless you say yes, you must hold that murder is a less fearful evil, and a lesser crime when not punished by death, than when it is—that society needs less protection now than when the death-penalty was in force. And would it not be manifest absurdity to give that construction to the constitution and laws which must inevitably weaken the bonds of society, and withdraw the security to life and person which it is the right of every citizen to demand of government? If the construction of Judge COWEN, id est omne genus, is correct, there the clause referred to is nugatory—a death letter, functus officio. But if you give it the construction I contend for, it will yet have some operation, and that a good one.

Some may be disposed to lay some stress on the section from the statutes which I quoted above, as the words "punishable with death" are there used. It is very clear that whoever drafted that section understood the word "capital" in its technical sense; but I believe it has been clearly demonstrated that it was used in its popular sense. Be that as it may, the statute is to be construed by the constitution—the lesser must give way to the greater. The object of the constitution was to protect society from the horrible deeds of the cold blooded assassin, "when the proof was evident, or the presumption great," by placing him securely in prison, there to await his trial. As long as murder is murder, so long the object of the constitution should be carried out. And it is only when murder ceases to be murder, that the absurd doctrine advocated by certain persons "herein before referred to" should be entertained by those common men who lay claim to common sense.

I had designed making a remark or two in relation to the laxity which is sometimes seen in the administering of the laws. It is not the fault of the law that jurors are allowed to separate, "run at large," &c., but the fault of the officers of the law. If your correspondent "Justice" would throw off a little prejudice, and take on a little more candor, he would still be "an advocate for the abolition of the gallows," and would cast the blame in case of Drum, not on the law, rightly understood, but on the ministers of the law, who alone are culpable.

City Matters.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES ON SATURDAY—10,000 WORTH PROPERTY LOST.

On Saturday morning the Methodist Church on the corner of Spring and West Water Streets was entirely consumed by fire, nothing but the walls were left standing, and those in a most dangerous condition to the passers by. The fire was first discovered about 3 o'clock A. M. in a small wooden building, immediately behind and occupied as a storage room for Tesch's Drug Store.—In this building spirits, Camphene &c., was kept, and we understand that no fire was kept in it and that no person was permitted to go in with a light at any time. Several persons attempted to put out the fire by cutting through the boards with axes, but the flames increased suddenly from the ignition of Camphene or some other substance, and they were compelled to desist.

The fire soon spread and enveloping in flames the adjoining buildings, one of which was a boarding house, kept by Fishbach, which was entirely destroyed, as also the building used by Mr. Brick as a Chair factory. Up stairs in this building were four bureaus partly made, which were destroyed, together with about 150 feet of choice lumber and the tools of the four mechanics there employed; most of the other property in this building was saved. We understand that Mr. Fishbach had an insurance of $700 on the property in his house, in the German Mutual Insurance Company of this City.

In about an hour after the fire broke out, the window cills and a portion of the cornice of the Methodist Church were found to be on fire, and although every effort was made by the firemen, the roof soon caught and the building was completely gutted. The original cost of the church, with the stores under it, we are informed, was about $8,000. The basement was composed of four stores: a drug store, kept by Mr. Tesch; a provision store, kept by Mr Boardman; a coffin store by Mr Crouch, and Pratt's city flour store. The property which belonged to the Methodist Church was under a lease of originally twenty years, and now about fifteen years to run, and it falls with a heavy loss on the church, as there was, we are informed, a provision in the lease that the trustees should rebuild the stores in case they were burned.

We believe there was no insurance on the stores, but upon the Church itself there was an insurance of $2,500, 1,500 in the Milwaukee Mutual and $1000 in the Etna Insurance Office of Hartford, Connecticut. But little loss was sustained by either Mr. Pratt or Mr. Tesch, Boardman, or Crouch—the goods &c., were removed rapidly. Mr. Burr had an office adjoining the coffee store, but suffered no particular loss.

ANOTHER FIRE.—The above was barely in type when the alarm of fire was again sounded, and the fatigued firemen, who had had no time for rest, had again to turn out to a call from the 1st Ward. Here the damage done to buildings bore no comparison to that done on the other side of the river, with the exception of several poor families being turned out, goods, furniture and all, into the street, with scarcely a moment's warning. A sight like this is truly appalling, to many it proves almost ruin; and in winter, on a day when icicles hang around the hair of the volunteer firemen, it is indeed a severe affliction.

The fire originated from the chimney of a house occupied by Wm. SCHMALING near the corner of Martin and East Water Street, and the building next to it soon caught. The promptness of the firemen and the Hook and Ladder company soon obtained the mastery, and the damage in all will perhaps not exceed $300. The house adjoining Mr. SCHMALING was occupied by Mr. RYDER and was insured in the German Insurance office, but for what amount we have no knowledge. This is the second time Mr. SCHMALING has been burned out; the first time about two years ago.

United States Buildings.

Below we publish the Memorial of the Mayor and Aldermen of our city, to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, asking an appropriation for the erection of U. S Buildings.

To the Hon. the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled.

The undersigned Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Milwaukee, would respectfully represent to your Hon. bodies that the Public interest does require the election of a suitable building in this City for a Custom House, Post Office, United States Court Rooms, and for Offices for the other United States Officers located in this City.

The Grounds necessary for such a building could probably be purchased at present at reasonable terms. In few Cities within the United States, of the same commercial importance and the same number of Inhabitants, can property be purchased at as reasonable prices as in our City. Though the value of property is rising rapidly, and that the necessity of the United States providing for a building for the transaction of the official business of their officers at this place, will become more imperative with every year, —none acquainted with the facts will doubt. The duties received by the Collector of this port, amounted already to near one hundred thousand dollars during the last year, and from the increase of the revenue received here before, it is expected that it will double every year for some years to come, a safe and commodious office should be provided for that officer. The business of the City Post Office is already very extensive, and probably before such a building as would be required, could be finished the Mail for this State and for Minesota will be brought to this place directly from Buffalo by Rail Road, through the State of Michigan and by Steam Boat, and by that time a distributing office at this place will be necessary, as this City will be brought in immediate connection with all parts of our State by five Railroads, radiating from this place, now in progress of actual construction. Your petitioners have been informed from reliable source, that more business is transacted before the United States District Court of this State, than before any other United States Court, except the District Court of the United States at the City of New York; and nine tenths of the business of the Court of the District of Wisconsin is transacted at this place. The papers of the offices of the Clerk of that Court and of the United States Marshal are of immense value, and their present offices, as well as the offices of the other United States officers are neither safe nor commodious.

The United States pay at the present time a large amount for office rent in this City, and rents are rising rapidly, so that the erection of such a building would soon lead to the saving of Public monies. Your petitioners hope that from these and other considerations, your Hon. Bodies will deem it expedient to appropriate a sum of money for that purpose

And your petitioners will ever pray.

Young Men's Association.

It will be seen by the advertisement the Mr. RYAN proposes discussing "Mrs. Jellyby," a prominent character in "Bleak House," before the Young Men's Association, this evening, at Young's Hall.

Judging from the character of Mrs. Jellyby, we fancy Mr. Ryan will give his views pretty fully upon "Woman's Rights," and "Woman's Sphere." We have seldom read so delightful a satire as is presented by Dickens in this "strong minded" creation. We look for a full house and predict an able, interesting and entertaining Lecture. Tickets may be had at the Library Rooms during the day, and at the door this evening.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Messrs. CHAMPTON and DOWE, agents, sold to H. S. BROWN a day or two ago, the house recently occupied by A. JULIUS MOSS for $3750,00.

☞ The sale at Steven's Point Land Office, during the month of December amounted to $40,000. This looks some as though the Milwaukee and Horicon Rail Road would have business enough when finished to that place.—Kipon Herald.

Particulars of Battle of Sinope.

PERSIA AND RUSSIA JOINED.

New-York, Jan. 14.

Additional news had been received at Constantinople, per the Overland mail, that the Shah had left Teheran, with an army of 300,000 men and 40,000 pieces of cannon, together with 3000 camels loaded with ammunition, to join with Russia at Cabul. Accounts also state that the Shah had sent an envoy to Dost Mahomed to point to him the advantages of siding with Persia and Russia.

A curious development has come to light, which indicates that Russia has been long preparing for the present crisis. A large expedition has been secretly organizing under the superintendence of Count Keyserlingk, against the Khan of Kelwa Odessa.

Letters of the 5th instant state positively that the Japan line-of-battle gun ship was destroyed at the battle of Sinope. The official bulletins do not mention this loss. She was bravely attacked by a Turkish frigate, and both vessels, after a desperate struggle, were blown up.

One of the Turkish Admirals had died from wounds received at Sebastopol. Admiral Osman and his brave supported, and now lies in a dangerous state.

The Turks estimate their loss at Sinope, in ships, munitions, treasures, &c., at 2000,000 piastres.

Two cases of Recruits had arrived in Poland on the 24th inst. The principal part of the Russian force in Poland has been ordered to join the army in Wallachia.

From Bucharest we learn that large numbers of troops and horses are marching upon Lesser Wallachia, and that Prince Gorschakoff had taken command.

Particulars of the Loss of Stmr. San Francisco.

New-York, Jan. 13.

The latest intelligence from the steamer San Francisco states that she foundered at sea and 240 passengers were lost, including Col. Taylor and wife, Col. Washington, Lieut. Smith, and Capt. Field. 140 passengers arrived to day, including Maj. Wise, Lieut. Hinder, Col. Gates, Maj. Merchant, Col. Bonds, Capt. Field, Lieut. Fremont, and Lieut. Van Vorst.

All the sails and spars of the steamer San Francisco were blown away in the gale on the morning of the 26th. The engine was stopped; the piston was broken off, leaving the vessel totally unmanageable, the sea striking her tremendous blows sending her guards, tearing up the planking fore and aft, on both sides. At the same time the troops organized into baling her.

At o'clock on the 27th, the sea struck her amidships, carrying away both smoke stacks and the upper saloon—starving the quarter deck thro' and washing overboard a large number of the passengers, including Col. Washington, Maj. Taylor and wife, Capt. Field, Lieut. Smith, two Indians, names not known; 3 civilians, names unknown, and U. S. Troops.

On the 29th she spoke the barque Kilby, of Boston, bound to N. Y., who laid by her until 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 29th, when she commenced taking passengers on board. Upward of 150 got on board, including men, women and children, and the officers before mentioned.

At midnight the wind was increasing, with 3 squalls. The Kilby let go hausers at 10 o'clock, and nothing has been seen of her since. Gale continued throughout the 30th and 31st. Large numbers were sick and dying.

On the morn of the 1st spoke a British ship which lay by her until the 3d, when her boat came along side, and same day the steamer Atlantic from New York for Liverpool, bore down for her. On Wednesday, had all on board. Next morning took off crew and officers, Capt. Watkins being the last man to leave the San Francisco.

The British ship Three Bells brings 236 souls, including passengers, troops, officers and seamen of the steamer. There were 11 deaths among the crew of the steamer, from the time she was disabled to the 5th, including two washed over board.

Washington, Jan. 13th.

Clayton occupied nearly all the session in answering Cass' speech.

A resolution was passed in favor of printing 10 000 copies of Compendium to the census. A long debate then ensued on Senate bill providing mode of paying Senators.

Cobb, from Com. on Public Lands, reported back Homestead bill with amendments—referred.

Judiciary committee reported back a bill providing that persons heretofore born out of the limits of the U. S., whose fathers were, or who shall be, at this time, British citizens of the U. S. shall be deemed, considered and hereby declared citizens of the U. S., provided, however, the rights of citizenship shall not descend to persons whose fathers have never been in the U. S.

Dunkirk, Jan. 13, 3 P. M.

The America is still on the bar, she was scuttled last night to prevent her from going to pieces.

The Propeller Penguese is making preparations to go and take off her cargo. It is thot she may be hauled off after being lighted. The wind had gone down. Snowing moderately.

New Orleans, Jan. 12.

Stmr. Texas from Vera Cruz brings dates from Mexico to the 5th inst. Mr. Gadsden was on board.

An important treaty had been concluded with Mexico, which gives the U. S. 39,000,000 acres in Messilla Valley for the sum of $20,000,000,—$5,000,000 of which are reserved for paying claims, including Gava grant.

Gen. Lombardini is dead.

Troy, 14th.

Gen. Wood left here this morning for N. York, to replace the men and officers, lost on the San Francisco.

Charleston, 14th.

Steamer Isabella arrived here to-day from Havana, with dates of the 8th. Gen. Pezuea had refused to deliver to the American Consul the imprisoned American sailors.

Archbishop Hughes had arrived at Havana.

New-York, Jan. 14.

As yet we have no additional particulars to the full report sent last night in regard to the San Francisco. Indeed there are fears that there is nothing wanted but a list of the lost and saved to make the story complete, and this is not yet forthcoming.

Capt. Watkins, of the San Francisco, went on board the Antartic bound for Liverpool. The U. S. store-ship Relief, from Rio Janeiro and St. Thomas, is below, also the ship Lucy Thompson from Liverpool, with passengers saved from the San Francisco and trans ered from the Antartic; we have not learned who nor how many.

The screw steamer Alps of the Cunard line sailed this morning for Liverpool. She takes out 46 passengers and $224,000 in specie.

New Boston, N. H., Jan. 14.

In this town yesterday Henry R. Sergeant, 24 years old, fired a revolver four times at Miss J. Jones, killing her instantly, and then shot himself, dying in 6 hours—a love affair.

Pittsburg, 13th.

Judge Irwin has denied the application of Ira Sherwin, one of the Erie rioters, to be discharged from Alleghany Co. Jail. The denial to stand good until the breach injunction has been repaired, and proper submission made to the authorities of the court. The same order to the cases of the two Kilpatricks and Jno Jacks.

Erie, Pa, 13th.

A telegraphic despatch, directed to the mayor of this city, from Hon James Thompson, now in Harrisburgh, and who is counsel for the people of Erie, was received at this place to day, ordering suits to be brought against the U S Marshal and his aids, in the name of each prisoner, who had been arrested for false imprisonment.

Providence, 13th.

The whig state convention was held last evening, the Ticket being the same as nominated last year.

Washington, 13th.

Senator Clayton is confined to his bed. He has been seriously hert—not dadgerously attacked with influenze. He is determined to get to the Senate chamber on Monday to conclude his speech.

New-York, Jan. 14.

It is impossible to arrive certainly at the number of lives last by the San Francisco, but it is doubtless in the neighborhood of 290.

The deaths on board the ship Three Bells, which arrived here yesterday, amounted to 30 from cholera, brought on by the immediate use of preserved meats &c., and the want of cooking accommodations.

It is surmised that the barque Kilby must have put in port in Bermuda. She quitted the wreck a week before the Three Bells and has not since been heard from.

Cincinnati, Jan. 14.

The Memphis papers report that the steamer Gen. Burns, bound from this city for Arkansas river, struck a snag in the Mississippi, at Grand Cut off, and was torn to atoms in five minutes. She sank to her hurricane deck, when the whole cabin floated off, leaving the hull with fifteen deck passengers below the surface of the water, all of whom perished. The cabin passengers and crew were fortunately rescued by the steamer Sarsnac.

New York Jan. 14.

FURTHER FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO.

The ship Lucy Thompson has not yet got up to the city, and we are without any additional intelligence as to those on board of her, rescued from the San Francisco. It is also doubtful whether she took them off the Antarctic or the barque Kilby.

The percussion cap factory, Second street, Williamsburg, and two adjoining buildings, were destroyed by fire this morning.

The packet ship Continent, which arrived today from Liverpool with 493 passengers, reports having 54 deaths on the voyage from Cholera.
